Classe Figaro Bénéteau

Elite offshore racing

The Classe Figaro Bénéteau is the international reference class for single-handed and double-handed offshore racing. The races are sailed according to the principle of strict one-design class, which means that the skipper's skills in strategy, navigation, weather analysis, and endurance are the only factors that determine success. The class is considered the most important training platform for professional offshore sailors and is a springboard to the biggest ocean races such as the Vendée Globe and Route du Rhum.

Figaro Bénéteau 3

The Figaro Bénéteau 3 is a 9.75 m long offshore racer and the first series-produced one-design boat with foils. Strict class rules ensure that the class remains one-design.

A season consists of several single-handed and double-handed regattas, spread out from spring to fall, mostly along the French Atlantic coast. The races last from 24 hours to several days and are sailed in stages or as non-stop regattas.

The season, which traditionally culminates in the Solitaire du Figaro, a multi-week stage regatta, is concluded with an overall ranking.

Calendar

Solitaire du Figaro

The Solitaire du Figaro is considered the most demanding single-handed offshore regatta in several stages around the French Atlantic coast. The race was launched in 1970 and has been held annually ever since. The race area, which combines the English Channel, the French Atlantic coast, and the Bay of Biscay, demands everything from the skippers in terms of navigation, weather analysis, and endurance. Many future winners of major ocean races began their careers here. Hence the slogan: « This is where legends are born. »

Transat Paprec

The Transat Paprec is a two-handed transatlantic race that starts in Concarneau and ends in Saint Barth in the Caribbean. Since 1991, mixed teams of two have competed on Figaro 3 boats every two years on this traditional route. Sailing is one of the few sports in which there are no separate rankings for men and women. The complexity of the sport means that it is the mix of skills that counts.
